

NEW STUDENTS' GUIDE 2022-2023

PRE-ARRIVAL AND ORIENTATION INFORMATION

Welcome to Bau University. We look forward to seeing you in October. This guide is organised roughly chronologically taking you through the end of the summer, your first day, your first week, and then giving some general advice. It's worth giving this a read because hopefully many of your questions will be answered somewhere within these very pages.

Before you get here

At this point, we hope you'll be enjoying one of the longest and work-free summers you're ever going to get. Enjoy it, and make the most of the time you have at home. You'll probably have lots of questions about what to do before you get here. You'll want to know what to expect in terms of work, and the social side of life, as well as where you'll be living for the next terms. We hope that this guide answers some of the questions you might have, and gets you excited for all that's to come on the journey ahead.

BAU | International University
Batumi

Studying at BAU INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY BATUMI

BAU INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY BATUMI is an ambitious international university. We have a strong desire of providing education of the highest quality and there is a strong partnership between our staff and our students that influences every part of the BAU activity and is a key of our success.

Important Dates(Please check Academic Calendar)

Fall semester		October
Final exams		16-28 February 2022
Spring semeste		March
Final exams		6-18 July 2022

Teaching sessions may be timetabled between 09:00 and 18,00 Monday to Saturday, We try to keep Sunday afternoons free from teaching to allow you to participate in extra-curricular activities. When being a medical student, you need to get used to this busy schedule, which may be very different from your previous experience.

For further studies, our library and electronic resources are available and worth using.

Your research might not happen just in books so it's worth exploring the library and electronic resources too during your first weeks.

YOUR FIRST WEEK

Freshers' Week

Freshers' Week is a great opportunity for all new students to orient themselves to the Bau International University, Batumi. The week is packed with academic introduction and social activity for all students to join. The International Welcome Program sessions are specifically for international students and provide necessary information and help to start your life at the Bau Batumi international university.

YOUR ACADEMIC INDUCTION WILL INCLUDE:

- Welcome from your Head of College/ Discipline
- Academic support and representation in our university
- Understand your program structure and the year ahead
- Meet your personal tutor
- Meet your fellow students
- Finalize your modules
- Familiarize yourself with your academic building

Living in the Batumi

Living in a new culture is exciting but can also be challenging. Here is some basic advice about life in the Batumi.

- Although simple politeness is always expected, Georgian people like to hear 'please' and 'thank you' repeatedly! People here are very friendly but can be reserved, especially when talking to strangers. You might also like to download application or basic phrases to communicate easily.
- If you are invited to someone's home for a meal it is polite to take a small gift (for example, wine, chocolates or flowers), or you could invite them to your home in return. It is considered good manners to tell your hosts in advance if you have special religious or dietary requirements.
- When you are in a bank, shop or waiting on a bus you are expected to queue; stand in line and wait your turn. People can get very angry if you 'jump the queue'.
- Georgian attitudes on sex and sexuality may be different from those in your own country. You are free to live according to your own personal standards, ethics and beliefs and not feel pressured to adopt those of any of your fellow students.
- Georgia has one of the easiest ways to pay your utility or any other bills. The whole country is full of pay boxes, where you can choose the service you would like to pay for, slide the cash and done. Easy! This way you don't need to wait in lines at a post office, bank, or any other office of the provider. You can even buy train tickets at certain pay boxes if you spontaneously decide to travel to other parts of the country.

Climate and clothing

Batumi has a warm climate thanks to its position next to the Black Sea. This means that it has nice temperature all year making it an all year destination. Summers can be very warm, but not too hot. The average annual temperature in Batumi is around 14 degrees Celsius (57 °Fahrenheit). Rainfall in Batumi is frequent year round.

Outerwear

It is better to have 3 options for outerwear:

- Something windproof — a windbreaker.
- Something warm — a winter jacket or a parka coat.
- Something in the middle, and better — waterproof.

Living in the Batumi

Smoking

Smoking is prohibited in all government workplaces, schools, childcare facilities and recreation cultural facilities. Smoking restrictions are required in private workplaces, restaurants, bars and retail stores. The use of e-cigarettes is prohibited by food service employees at work, except in designated areas.

Drinking water

All Georgian tap water is safe to drink unless it is labelled 'not for drinking'. Do not use water from the hot water tap for making hot drinks. You should instead boil a kettle or use a microwave.

Georgian Language

The official language of Georgia is Georgian, along with Abkhazian language in Abkhazian A/R. Georgian language is one of the oldest living languages in the world. It belongs to the family of Ibero-Caucasian group. It should be noted that the Georgian alphabet is among the world's 14 alphabets and takes 5th place for its age. The majority of local people in Adjara talk in Georgian, Russian and English languages.

GEORGIAN DISHES

Homesickness

The decision to study at BAU international university Batumi brings the opportunity to make new friends, to expand your academic knowledge, and to change your existing view of the world. But in common with any major transition, it also brings challenges. Feeling homesick can be one of them, even if you've already lived abroad. It is one of the emotional states that can be a part of what is known as culture shock. Homesickness is a common experience for international students- and for many Georgian students who have left home for the first time. It affects people in different forms: e.g. coming in waves, or slowly building up over time. So sometimes it seems like a physical illness, e.g. feeling tired, unwell, or lacking in energy. It can appear when you're not expecting - for example, when things have gone well.

The trigger in this case can be having no one really close or special with whom to share the experience.

Symptoms of homesickness can include:

- Feeling down-hearted, tearful or anxious
- Feeling lost or lonely
- Longing and grief for your former life
- Being unable to stop contacting people at home
- Being absent-minded, or finding it difficult to concentrate
- Feeling unwell
- Brooding on the past

Common triggers may include:

When the 'honeymoon period' has worn off, i.e. Batumi no longer seems wonderful or exciting

When you have doubts about your decision to study here

When the demands of your course have become more real, and your self-confidence is affected

If the local culture feels confusing, unwelcoming, or just too different

If you miss a major celebration, holiday or important event that is happening at home

When a crisis occurs and your parents, friends or partner aren't there to provide help and support

If friends leave Batumi, or if you spend long periods of time here when others have gone back home

Homesickness

There may be other causes, depending on your particular circumstances. But the most important thing to remember is that homesickness is normal. Be patient with yourself as you adjust. Try to accept that feeling comfortable in BAU will take some time. It helps if you can encourage yourself, and if you can remember that you are not alone in feeling this way.

Things you can do to cope with homesickness:

Leave your room

It can be tempting to seek the security of your own space, but don't hide in your room for too long. Reach out to others. Invite people for a cup of tea or coffee, or for a meal. Go into town, for a walk by the river, or see a film. Don't be afraid to talk about your experience of homesickness, but try to stay positive.

Consider how much time you spend in contact with the people back home:

If you keep in touch infrequently, you'll miss the support that you crave from the people who are important to you. But if you rely on them too much, you may risk becoming overly-dependent. Try to strike a reasonable balance to get the best of both worlds, with the aim of developing a new sense of your own independence.

Do something

Meeting up with others from your own culture can be an antidote to loneliness, and an essential source of comfort. But it's equally important to leave your comfort zone from time to time. The opportunities in BAU are many and varied- get involved, and get busy! Join a student society, play a sport, volunteer, try a new type of food. Attend one of the many performances, lectures, and events that regularly take place across the University and Colleges.

Find a way to process your experiences

Many international students post blogs, keep journals, take photographs, or find other mediums to help them get through times of homesickness and culture shock. A photo journal or blog can become a way of documenting our life at Cambridge, sharing with others what you experienced, what you've learned, and how you faced up to any obstacles along the journey.
